Line of luck in hand

Many people wonder about good luck signs on the palms. It is one of the many popular questions I get asked when doing a palm reading. Good luck, it seems, is finding success brought by chance rather than through one’s own actions. However, many successful people are lucky, because of their actions. In palmistry, there are a few luck signs which many people have, yet never realise. Most of the time, people who seem to be lucky, are actually just positive, hardworking and happy people. So the signs of good luck would be pretty much the same as the signs of a happy person. If you do not have these signs, don’t worry, there are things you can do to change your luck. (See some ideas below this article). The good luck signs from the palms and linesIf I was to look for good luck signs on the palms, I would look for these listed below: A well-developed mount in the space between the ring finger and middle finger. (The one mount sharing the space below the two fingers.) Lines rising up to the ring finger (at least one). More than one line shows many opportunities. A trident (three-pronged fork) line beneath the ring or middle finger. Rising branch lines from the life line (the line which wraps around the ball of thumb) A rising branch line from the fate line. A rising line from the heart line to the success line. A well-developed (long) thumb and pinkie. Firm hands (not soft and flabby). Four bracelet lines on the wrist. What is palmistry? The Study of the hand, Chiromancy is one of the oldest of the ancient forms of divination, which has long been known as palmistry. This study of the hands helps us to learn about ourselves and our goals in life. It is possible to see positive and negative features, not just from the lines, but also from the hand and finger shapes. In modern times, a new methodical approach to hand reading has evolved (Chirolgy) which uses not only the study of the hand shape and fingers but also of the lines, markings, skin texture, skin colour, fingernails, palm ridges and fingerprints. THE LINES ON THE HANDS The major lines are often what people look at most when questioning about their palms, but these lines can and do change. What is evident in your hands now, does not mean that there is a fated outcome from what we see, therefore as our thoughts and desires change, new lines can be formed and old ones can fade. The lines which are most likely to change are the minor lines. The major lines are least likely to change quickly over time and the palmar ridges and fingerprints do not change at all. Which hand to read? The hand that a person writes with is usually their dominant hand, and the lines and hand shape can show which is the non-dominant. The dominant hand is less flexible, demonstrated by a thumb with a smaller angle. The non-dominant hand tends to be more relaxed and have more lines because it shows our thoughts, and what is really going on. The dominant hand The dominant hand describes what is happening in their material or the outer world right now, (the conscious). It shows what we are experiencing and whether we have developed and grown from our past. The right and left hands are usually different, which is why I always look at both. The non-dominant hand The non-dominant hand defines what is mostly happening on an inner level (subconscious) or what is potential. It shows what we feel we could be doing or should be doing. I read the history from the non-dominant hand, but both sides can depict past events due to timing on the lines. Making predictions from the palm lines If trying to make predictions, the fate line is an excellent example of using the past and future in a reading. If the left or non-dominant hand has a weak fate line, but the dominant has a well-formed one, it can show that the subject has made life decisions or become more motivated. An example from the chained heart line on the non-dominant hand: If the dominant hand has a clean one, it shows the person is no longer as sensitive or nervous as in the past. The line of head The head line shows how we think. So, if there are breaks on the line on the non-dominant hand, the person might feel like they can’t focus. It might also suggest an indecisive nature. If the dominant hand has a regular line, it doesn’t affect the person much. Keeping records It is a good idea to keep a record of the palms by taking a clear digital photo, a photocopy or ink print of both palms. This way, you can look them up later to see if there have been any changes. The Fingers The fingers themselves can also show characteristics that depict a different personality at home compared to the public eye. For instance, a short middle finger on the non-dominant hand indicates that at home the subject is carefree and tolerant, but if on the right, the middle finger is a regular length (or long), they are more serious and firmer at work or in front of the public eye. Another example which represents our responsibilities, boundaries and the law, is when the middle finger is short on the dominant hand, but not on the non-dominant, the subject may struggle to be responsible with the finances or be inclined to break the rules outside of the home. It’s not to say that is the general nature because other factors come into the analysis but consider finger length as a foundation of the reading. April 9, 2017 fcpalmistry 0 The lines on our hands can tell us a lot about our future. We just need to know how to decode this ancient art. Apart from the heart, head and life lines, the fate line is one of the most important and interesting lines on our palms. It goes vertical across the other main lines and more or less can be found in the center of the palm. Usually, it starts at the base of our hand and stretches upwards towards the middle finger aka the Saturn finger. The fate line is also called the Saturn line. In Chinese palmistry, it is believed that the fate line holds the answers to our professional and financial future. It can tell us about the ups and downs we can experience as well as the lucky periods. It can also tell us about the opportunities that can arise in our future. The placement of the fate line can tell us some specific things about our life: 1. Starts from life line Source: Illustration If the fate line begins from where the life line is and ends at the heart line, then you are someone who has a rebellious streak. You are not someone who follows the trodden path and you are likely to struggle in your early years trying to find your footing. You are independent and resilient, which is why even when it feels like you are alone you can pull yourself through. You are also likely to earn wealth between the age of 35 and 56 years, according to thestateindia.com. 2. Fork sign at the end of fate line Source: Illustration If you have a fate line that ends in a fork sign, it shows that you are someone who might have to fight hard to free themselves from difficulties. You might be entrapped by your own insecurities and would have to fight them to get ahead in life. Once you are able to do that, you can gain wealth that can see you through the rest of your life. However, you need to be careful of run-ins with the law. Mostly, it indicates fame and wealth. 3. Two fate lines Source: Illustration If you have two or double fate lines, then that indicates that you are someone with a creative and versatile thinking process. You are most likely to have a few skills that help you excel in life too. You are likely going to have more than one expertise and you will juggle a few careers together. You are dedicated and will need the patience to see yourself through your dreams. There might be multiple challenges in your path and you will have to find a way to wade through. It can mean that you have a double income that will help you flourish financially, according to dreamastromeanings. 4. Branch at the beginning of line Source: Illustration If you see a branched fate line at the start, then you are likely to be someone who has ardent faith in God and you will be that way for life. You believe in serving the community and focus on helping those who are destitute. You are a kind soul and are almost always cheerful. Whether it’s about fixing someone’s roof or mowing someone’s garden, you are always ready to lend a helping hand through cash and kind. 5. Starts from the wrist Source: Illustration If the fate line on your hand, starts at the wrist or a little above it, going straight to the mount of Saturn, which is right below the middle finger, you are likely to have immense wealth. However, if there is any break, cut or cross, wavy sections, island signs or black dots, then the luck is sketchy or short. Only when the line is uninterrupted will you find financial success. Whatever profession you choose, will make you rich. 6. Wavy line Source: Illustration If you have a fate line that is not straight then it indicates some trouble in your life. It could be that you have to work extra hard to get where you want to be. It can also indicate financial hardship as well as doing hard labor. If the fate line is wavy then the hardship will be during those years the wavy line indicates towards. I.e., if it wove in the middle, it could indicate difficult years in the middle of your life, and same for beginning of the line and end of the line. It can also show that you need to be careful about your health. If the line turns straight after a few wavy lines, then that indicates good fortune after a certain period.
