Bootcamp 5.1 5621.

Also, Also, you wouldn't be able to boot into Windows after selecting its drive as bootable in macOS Preferences's Startup disk. Using the HP 654540-001 3.5" SATA 2.5" adapter (7$) to place 2.5" SSD in a drive bay can be quite convenient. Step 4: Format the target drive Press Shift+F10 to launch command prompt. Special thanks to h9826790 for sharing his useful experience. It's pretty disappointing considering how capable and upgradable these machines still are. Download and install 7zip, download Brigadier 0.2.4 app, open Windows command prompt where Brigadier is located and type: brigadier -m MacPro5,1 When finished, it will create a folder BootCamp-031-11269, you need to install these for Bluetooth and internal speaker correspondingly, make sure you run the command prompt as administrator: BootCamp-031-11269\Drivers\Apple\x64\AppleBluetoothBroadcomInstaller64.exe BootCamp-031-11269\Drivers\RealTek\RealtekSetup.exe Now we need newer BootCamp drivers intended for iMacPro1,1: brigadier -m iMacPro1,1 When finished, it will create a folder BootCamp-041-55643, you need to run this command: msisexec /i BootCamp-041-55643\Bootcamp\Drivers\Apple\bootcamp.msi When finished, reboot. Of cause, SATA II (up to 300MB/s) is a bottleneck for modern 2.5" SSDs (up to 550 MB/s where SATA III is preferable) but real life experience shows that the difference is hardly noticeable unless you deal with lots of big files (e.g. >1GB where sequential read/write speeds matter) on your system drive. Burning a DVD disk under macOS can be done with the following Terminal command: drutil burn %path to iso file% On Windows we recommend using the free ImgBurn app. These need to be installed from the original Boot Camp package for MacPro5,1. We didn't test using PCIe SATA III adapter or PCIe NVMe adapter for Windows partition. Step 1: Use separate drive for Windows Boot Camp Assistant no longer supports cMP and doesn't allow creating Separate partition for Windows. Normally proceed with the installation until the unit selection screen is displayed «Where to install Windows.» We also recommend running Apple Software Update to update WiFi drivers: You probably don't want to forget to install ours Fantastic Mac Fan Control app, right? Step 2: Create a Windows 10 bootable DVD disk WARNING: Do not install Windows from a USB flash unit. Any comments are welcome. If you have done it successfully let us know in the comments below or by e-mail. Windows must be installed on a separate unit, which is good actually to avoid mess with partitions in the future. This guide is for those who want MacOS Mojave + Windows 10 + Modern GPU (in our case Sapphire Radeon Pulse RX 580 8GB). What is more, none of them supports the startup menu display with 4K 60Hz monitor connected. It is recommended to use the internal SATA II connector in one of the four unit housings or alternatively one of the two SATA II connectors in the optical unit area. When finished, start in Windows. It was discovered that Windows when installed in EFI mode corrupts the Mac Pro firmware by signing it with more certified Secure Boot (X.509). Classic Mac Pro 5.1 (or simply CMP, I too updated from 4.1 to 5.1) is now considered vintage by Apple. Your Mac will be restarted twice. There should be only two partitions (for Legacy installation, the EFI mode creates four) Automatically created: Select the 2-created partition 2 and continue with the installation normally. Press the «New» button to create the necessary partitions. Type the following commands: DiskPart List Disk Now make sure you select the correct destination unit number N (not your MacOS disk), after this type: Select Disk N Clean Exit Exit You should see the unit Non-allocated space. Many people reported that this was not possible in their case. Therefore Windows should only be installed in Legacy Bios mode from an optical unit. Optics. 3 Start from the Windows 10 DVD disc turn on the Mac by holding down the button «» starting from the optical disc (if you have PCIe units installed and «» does not start From the disk, remove these PCIe cards). The installation of Windows is no longer officially supported, but «» is completely possible, although not very easy. Well, some EFI boot cards that support the start menu exist, but they are released almost 10 years ago and are really obsolete. :) Passage between MacOS Mojave and Windows when you are in MacOS, use preferences's Startup disk to select a boot unit: when «» you are in Windows, use the control panel Boot Camp from the Windows tray to select a boot unit: This guide is based on this macrumors thread. In practice the screen remains black up to the loading of MacOS. Updated May 28, 2019 Installing Windows 10 in 5 steps Si «» s Suppose that you have the latest version of Boot Rom 144.0.0.0.0. Otherwise, update first. At each reboot, don't forget to access the start menu (holding down the Option key) and select «Windows» boot unit. Step 5: Install the Windows drivers and the Boot Camp Windows 10 utility automatically installs all the drivers needed except Bluetooth and internal speaker. Another challenge is that MacOS Mojave 10.14 now implies the use of Metal-compatible GPU while most of them are unable to view Apple's start menu (which is normally seen by keeping the option button) necessary for Startup in Windows. Make sure that the Windows 10 ISO file fits the DVD disc, in our case we had to burn Windows 10 1803 ISO (64-bit) on a DVD + R Single-Layer 4.7GB disc. 4.7 GB.
